Native Teen Guide-In-Training Camp

Provided by Canyonlands Field Institute

Native Teen Guide-In-Training is an Indigenous centered summer camp for students entering 8th-12th grade (ages 13-18) who are interested in building community, developing leadership, and learning whitewater rafting skills. The Guide-In-Training camp teaches essential skills that can lead to employment in outdoor education, natural resources, recreation tourism, and wilderness medicine.

Camp Participants
The camp is designed for Indigenous students entering 8th-12th grade.

Camp Dates
June 21st -28th, 2022. The duration is 8 days & 7 nights.

Location
Bluff and the San Juan River, Utah.

Equipment
All meals, tents, sleeping bags & pads included.

Cost Per Participant
$50

Call us to learn more & Apply!
(435) 259-7750

www.cfimoab.org  info@cfimoab.org
We encourage teens from Native Tribes and Nations throughout the U.S to apply to this program. The Priority Application Deadline is May 1st, 2022!

Camp Webpage: cfimoab.org/trips/native-teen-guide-training-camp
Beau grew from his experience at Canyonlands Field Institute's Native Teen Guide-In-Training. He's already passionate about the outdoors, and this trip solidified his gratefulness for our land, people, and culture. His eyes filled with tears as he described the beauty of a sunset out there. Words can't describe how proud I am.

- Chris F., Participant's Parent

Testimonials

Thank you very much for this opportunity. I learned how to tie knots, to paddle raft, and to jump into a swimming hole for the first time. This was my first raft trip and I hope to come back next year.

- Keilani K., NTGIT Camp Participant

Beau grew from his experience at Canyonlands Field Institute's Native Teen Guide-In-Training. He's already passionate about the outdoors, and this trip solidified his gratefulness for our land, people, and culture. His eyes filled with tears as he described the beauty of a sunset out there. Words can't describe how proud I am.

- Chris F., Participant's Parent

It is so heartwarming! I love seeing these kids on the river, whether they are from the rez or the city, just being in their element. We don't see many groups like this on the river in my experience. This is just definitely a diamond in the rough program!

- Brandi A., Camp Guide & Educator

Canyonlands Field Institute

www.cfimoab.org

435-259-7750